

Ashley Farmer

Associate Professor, History & African Diaspora Studies, University of Texas-Austin

Dr. Ashley Farmer is an award-winning and internationally known writer, researcher, and cultural analyst who explores and reports on Black history and its implications today. She is an expert in African American History, Black Political organizing, and African American women's history and is a sought after voice in national conversations about race, gender, and social justice as evidenced by her contributions and interviews with NPR, PBS, The History Channel, and the New York Times. Her most recent book, Remaking Black Power: How Black Women Transformed an Era (UNC Press, 2017) was short-listed for numerous awards, won two honorable mentions for awards in African American and African American women's history. Farmer holds a BA from Spelman College and an MA and PhD from Harvard University. She has a wide social media following and tweets from @drashleyfarmer and lives in Austin, Texas.

---