

Greg &quot;BOSS&quot; Wooldridge

3x Leader of The Blue Angels

Greg Wooldridge, also known as "Boss", is a highly respected leader known for his ability to build high-performing teams based on communication, trust, and teamwork. His heart-driven approach proved to be a perfect match for the Blue Angel's culture of excellence, where he successfully led three teams through times of difficult transition. Inspired by his success, Gregg now shares his methods to empower individuals and teams on their journey towards high performance.

In flight candidate school, he learned camaraderie from his classmates, an emotion that helped elevate individual performance through team effort. Later, as commander of a carrier squadron, Greg recognized the potential of a motivated team and its ability to perform at maximum efficiency.

After being selected as Blue Angel's CO, Greg experienced taking his dreams and beliefs to new heights. His success illustrates how any organization can redefine high performance.

In 2024, The Royal Family of Dubai hand selected Greg to speak for the Dubai International Project Management Forum. He is also one of the five Executive Producers for an incredible Blue Angel Documentary movie.

His unique experience resonates with all audiences, and his keynotes offer insight on:

Leading the .01%: Blue Angels pilots are the best of the best, and channeling that kind of talent takes special care. Greg's success leading the Blues provides a powerful model for any team or organization looking to re-define High Performance.

Being The "Tip of the Spear": Effective leadership requires a mindset that inspires trust through confidence, but which remains open to communication and critique. Great teams are victorious together.

Extreme Focus & Precision: The Blue Angels risk their lives every time they execute a maneuver. Greg draws his methods from a world where strategies for extreme focus are part of a larger process that ensures safety as well as precision.