

Charlie Linville

First Combat-Wounded Veteran to Summit Mount Everest, Former Marine EOD (Bomb) Technician

Stop Saying “Can’t”: With remarkable stories about his personal journey as the first combat-wounded veteran to reach the summit of Mount Everest, Linville shares the secrets behind his relentless determination to achieve what others say cannot be done, including slowly chipping away at an enormous goal and pushing past limitations. As Linville explains, terrible things happen in the world every day, but cannot change who you are. He believes happiness is a choice, and reveals the power of emotional resilience and unwavering dedication in a way that inspires all audiences working towards a personal goal. Linville, with his honesty and humility, will motivate you to be your best self no matter what obstacles get thrown your way.
