Mastering the Art of Resiliency: Why Bad Things Happen To Good People And How to Turn Adversity into the Advantage. How is it that we have never before had such abundance in the world and yet so often we all feel like we have no hope and that adversity will destroy us?

The client doesn't buy, a health setback occurs, a relationship with a loved one is tense, our business or career is in shambles...

We are mentally programmed to give up or be upset, not necessarily because our lives are so tough but because we haven't learned the strategies and tactics to persevere when the odds are against us.

In this raw, inspiring keynote Klyn explains how growing up within hospital walls due to complications of cystic fibrosis actually was the most advantageous thing to ever happen for it showed her a clear sense of purpose for her life.

These principals, strategies and tactics explained in this incredibly emotional, heart felt presentation is something that can be applicable to anyone fighting to thrive in their business, their career, family, or even their life.

This keynote is highly recommended for those looking to turn extreme adversities to an advantage.
