

Christopher Campbell

Former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for Financial Institutions

Economy 2020: Headlines of Today, Trends of Tomorrow. Regularly called upon by major media outlets for his economic expertise, Christopher Campbell provides audiences with an expert analysis of today's economy. Having had a front-row-seat to financial legislation in the U.S. Treasury and Senate Committee on Finance, he shares his insider perspective on current economic issues like international trade, taxation, policymaking, recession analysis, as well as provides his outlook of where the economy is headed and how businesses can prepare.

Navigating the Challenges and Opportunities of Regulation. In this talk, Christopher Campbell discusses the challenges of a shifting regulatory landscape and explores the opportunities for regtech to drive the future of financial regulation. Sharing lessons learned from his time in Washington, Campbell provides an insider's view of how policymakers are thinking about regulation as well as the ways it will impact audiences' specific business interests.