

Daisy Auger-Dominguez

Chief People Officer at Vice Media | Workplace Culture Shaper from Disney, Google and Moody's

Getting Unstuck: How to Create Inclusive Culture Practices That Work. While companies have increasingly stated their commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion, we have not seen that translated into meaningful progress. This is a candid conversation about inclusion, power and privilege in the workplace that offers a set of actions for those who are willing to find the courage to realize equity in their organizations.

Unlocking Gender Equity: Leading with Community, Courage and Purpose. Gender equity in the workplace is one of the most important business issues of our time. Yet we have yet to see this commitment translated into gender equitable outcomes. In this talk, we discuss strategic barriers and opportunities to transform organizational cultures through the power of community, courage and purpose.

Out of the Shadows: Amplifying the Latinx Experience in the Workplace. The full inclusion and success of Latinx employees in American workplaces continues to evade us. We can't talk about gender equity and not address the persistent barriers that affect Latinx employees in the workplace. In this candid conversation, I share my personal and professional journey and offer actionable solutions to provide better support and shift exclusive organizational structures.