

Paul Mecurio

Emmy & Peabody Award Winner

Motivational Speaker: Wall Street to Show Biz – A Crossroad – Doubts, Fears, Reinvention, Pursuing One's Dream and Finding Happiness. Paul's life-story of Wall Street lawyer and investment banker turned entertainer is an amazing tale, warts and all, of major accomplishments, fears, doubts, passion, inspiration, and triumph. This story can be presented in seminars, live performances, as part of corporate retreats, etc. with multiple important themes that truly resonate with many people in the corporate world and will serve them well in their careers and personal lives.

Paul's story is one of pursuing your dreams and the commitment and focus that takes. It is also about reinvention, confusion as to where one is in one's life, doubts, fears, feeling lost and more. When Paul talks about this publicly there are many, many people who find themselves in a similar dilemma. Namely, they are at an unexpected crossroads in their careers and/or personal lives, asking themselves, "Am I on the right career path?" "Is this the right relationship to be in?" "Am I living my dream?" "How do I reinvent myself? If I only had some guidance or an inspirational story that could guide me." Paul's journey is JUST that kind of story. Entertaining, funny, moving, informational, and inspirational for people who feel the need to make a major change in their life.

Stand-Up Performances. Paul offers clients corporate-appropriate stand-up shows that are quite unique because of the way Paul prepares for his shows. Paul takes the time to meet with the client ahead of time to understand the client's goal of that event. Paul does extensive due diligence with the client to learn everything he can about the client's industry and client's personnel, and offers a unique service where he will customize his show (the material in his act) to the client and the client's industry. This has made for very successful and well-received shows Paul has done in the past as audience members are very entertained and very much appreciate that a show has been customized to them and what they do.

He is a master at engaging the audience off-the-cuff in a fun, corporate-appropriate way to personalize the show. He's able to incorporate members of the client's into the show in a way that celebrates their team members and shines a well-deserved positive light on them.

Hosting. Paul is quite adept at hosting client events, including awards shows, seminars, Q&A sessions, live auctions, and more. Paul does extensive due diligence and preparation with the client before the event. Using his unique, intelligent brand of humor, quick wit, and easy, likeable way with people, Paul is the consummate host and an expert at facilitating a fun and engaging show.

Custom Videos for Corporate Events. Since many live corporate events may also be virtual now, Paul can make videos either serious or comedic that can be rolled in over the course of a virtual annual meeting, seminars, weekend retreats, etc. Mecurio works closely with clients to customize the videos to their businesses, industry, needs, and content requirements. Paul can produce videos for LIVE events as well – they don't need to be just tied to virtual events.