Pro Endurance Athlete, 4x World Record Holder, and First Person to Cross Antarctica Solo, Unsupported and Unaided

Colin O'Brady is professional endurance athlete and a foremost expert on mindset. He is a four-time world record holder and former professional triathlete, Yale University graduate, and highly sought-after public speaker. Incredibly, his world records only came after his life was tragically derailed by a fire in Thailand, leaving him so badly injured that doctors warned he might never walk again normally.

O'Brady grew up exploring the mountains of the Pacific Northwest and cultivated a passion for adventure in the outdoors. His success swimming in Oregon led him to Yale University. After years as a professional triathlete, he returned to his first love – the mountains. In 2016 O'Brady conquered the speed records for the Explorers Grand Slam and Seven Summits, a global mountaineering challenge to climb the tallest mountain on each continent including Mt. Everest and ski to the North and South Poles. In 2018 Colin shattered the speed record for the 50 High Points Challenge when he summited the tallest point in each of the 50 U.S. states in just 21 days.

On December 26, 2018 O'Brady became a global media sensation when he became the first person in history to complete what was considered impossible. He crossed the landmass of Antarctica solo and completely man-powered, unaided by kites or resupplies. He accomplished the feat in 54 days, covering more than 930 miles along the way, including a heroic 77-mile, 32-hour push without sleep to finish the crossing. Throughout the nearly two-month journey, O'Brady never took a full day off. The New York Times called O'Brady's most recent success "one of the most remarkable achievements in polar history."

As one of America's most experienced endurance athletes and an inspiring entrepreneur, O'Brady embodies what it means to overcome obstacles, dream big, set goals, conquer mindset, unlock potential, and never give up. He is exclusively represented by Leading Authorities speakers bureau.
