

Philip Howard

Government Overhaul Advocate, TED Speaker, and Best-Selling Author

The Rule of Nobody. During a powerful presentation, Philip Howard addresses the terminal failure of modern government and discusses what a radical overhaul would look like. He argues that to get this country moving again, Americans must be liberated from legal micromanagement so that they are free to make sensible choices – like scrapping obsolete laws and approving new infrastructure projects in a year rather than a decade. With a deep understanding of the role of government, law, and regulation in the functioning of business and the lives of citizens, Howard shares insights on how America went wrong and offers a sensible guide for how to liberate human ingenuity to meet the challenges of this century.
