

David Wasserman

Senior Editor & Elections Analyst, The Cook Political Report with Amy Walter; NBC Contributor

An Insider's Guide to the New Reality in DC. Welcome to Trump 2.0. The 2024 elections ushered in full GOP control of the White House and Congress, albeit with narrow majorities in the House and Senate. In an engaging and strictly nonpartisan presentation, David Wasserman takes audiences on a tour of the trends that defined the 2024 election and what's in store for Washington in 2025 and beyond. How will Trump's second tour be different from his first, and how will key sectors of the economy navigate sweeping change? What might we expect in the 2026 midterms, and what does the future hold for Democrats? Drawing on his extensive interactions with both leaders and new members, David previews the road ahead and is sure to leave audiences of business leaders, grassroots advocates, and non-political junkies alike buzzing.

Road Map to the 2026 & 2028 Elections. The 2024 elections ushered in full GOP control of the White House and Congress, but will there be a backlash in 2026 or 2028? In an engaging and strictly nonpartisan presentation, David Wasserman takes audiences on a tour of key Senate, House and gubernatorial contests that will shape policymaking in Washington and politics for years to come. How will Democrats survive the wilderness, and what's next for Republicans after Trump? Drawing on his extensive interactions with candidates and strategists on both sides of the aisle, David previews the road ahead and identifies the campaign trends and electoral mood swings that will define the next chapter of American politics.