

Kevin O'Leary

Top Business Speaker, Respected Investor, Author, Venture Capitalist, and Judge on ABC's Shark Tank and CNBC's Money Court Reality Show

Cold Hard Truth Kevin O'Leary, one of North America's most successful entrepreneurs, reveals the secrets that made him rich and shares his personal advice for those from every walk of life. Kevin describes his incredible journey, from his sometimes difficult childhood to the way he built his first company, managed personal pressures, and ultimately achieved remarkable success. His advice is engaging and practical – and will help audience members become the best entrepreneurs and business people that they can be. Topics cover business, money, and life, including how to find your calling and turn your talents into a profitable venture; building a dream team; transforming adversity into opportunity, and making and growing your business—and your money.

Lessons From a Shark Kevin O'Leary will take you on a behind-the-scenes look at his hit show Shark Tank. He'll share entertaining and insightful outtakes from his TV shows – videos you can't see anywhere else, along with a current economic overview and how it relates to your industry, and finally, he'll be a 'secret agent' for your industry with insights into how your industry is performing, where the innovation is coming from and more. All based on a content review of your industry prior to the event.

Fireside Chat with Kevin O'Leary: Understanding and Thriving in an Uncertain World We are all facing a new and potentially challenging era at home and in our businesses: unusual presidential campaigns and high-pressure elections, high-interest rates, stock markets declining, and growing geopolitical tensions. An industry titan and champion of small businesses who frequently appears on major networks including CNBC and Fox, Kevin O'Leary has an ear to the ground on all things business and economics. In this moderated fireside chat, he brings the host and audience up to speed on the economy, rising interest rates, elections, and how to better understand the intersections between politics and economics and how they influence our world. Questions can be custom-tailored to your company and audience. Recommended topics include: Where is the US and international economy headed in 2024 and beyond? What is the outlook for US interest rates, consumer and business spending, inflation, and energy prices? What changes can we expect in supply chains, labor markets, and real estate? How do small business owners protect themselves in an increasingly chaotic market? How US – Chinese tensions are being managed and what are the implications? What is the likely end game in Russia's invasion of Ukraine? Which geopolitical threats are likely to erupt next — and what can you do to protect your business from catastrophe?

American Business 2.0 When the great Covid Pandemic of 2020 hit the world, it altered the American business landscape. While many businesses like restaurants, airlines, and shared workplaces (think WeWork) went out of business or were reduced drastically, online businesses like Zoom, Adobe, and Shopify flourished. Meanwhile, changes that were happening slowly in the workplace, such as remote work, flexible schedules, and online retailing, accelerated rapidly and became the norm. In this talk on the future of business, Kevin O’Leary will share other changes that are happening so you and your company can be prepared for American Business 2.0.