Mick Mulvaney

Former White House Chief of Staff, Director, U.S. Office of Management & Budget, and Acting Director, Consumer Financial Protection Bureau

Making Sense of Tariffs: An Insider's View on Global Trade Policy In this talk, audiences gain a candid analysis of the role tariffs play in global trade, with an insider's perspective on their benefits, challenges, and broader economic impact. Drawing on extensive experience at the highest levels of U.S. policymaking, audiences learn how tariffs are used strategically to protect domestic industries, enforce fairer trade practices, and shape national economic interests. With a deep understanding of the political landscape, the discussion covers the complexities of tariffs, from the potential for retaliatory measures to their impact on consumers, and how these tools fit into the larger framework of U.S. economic policy.

Economic Outlook: This Year and Beyond Having had a front-row seat to U.S. policymaking at the highest levels of government, Mick Mulvaney draws on his experience serving as the White House Chief of Staff, Director of the OMB, Acting Director of the CFPB, and Member of Congress to provide audiences with an insider perspective on the policy side of the country's economy – including the budget, taxation, and regulation. As the former U.S. Special Envoy to Northern Ireland, Mulvaney also shares his global perspective as he liaised with the region on growing their economic opportunities, particularly in the wake of Brexit and other current world events. Reflecting on the current economic and political environment and the latest policies being passed, Mulvaney delivers a candid economic outlook to help groups prepare for what's next.

Today's Politics and Current Events: Where Are We Now and Where Are We Going In this talk, Mick Mulvaney provides audiences with an entertaining and informative rundown on the latest in politics and current events. Drawing on his Cabinet experience and intimate knowledge of the inner workings of Washington, Mulvaney discusses today's political and economic climate from the perspective of someone who has lived it and done it. With no topic off limits, Mulvaney captivates groups with his experience, candor, and behind-the-scenes anecdotes, breaking down how today's major issues will impact the country's future.

Point/Counterpoint In this presentation, Mick Mulvaney pairs up with a Democratic counterpoint to offer perspectives from both sides of the aisle on current hot-button issues. Debating the key topics that are shaping the political landscape, Mulvaney delivers a thoughtful and lively discussion on today's headlines and the most pressing issues facing the current administration.
