strategies that your audience can apply immediately. Sarah will show how excellence, resilience, and a willingness to face challenges head-on can transform obstacles into opportunities. Attendees will leave with renewed confidence, armed with the skills to embrace change with grace and turn setbacks into successes. Key take-aways: Unexpected changes can lead to even better outcomes, if you're willing to embrace new opportunities. Lean into your strengths during change, as they provide the best path for leading others through uncertainty. Believe in yourself, even when plans change, because your adaptability will keep you moving forward. Your past experiences and skills are powerful tools that help you thrive in the face of change. Your unwavering commitment and energy inspire others to stay focused, even in uncertain times

THE 16 STRIDE FACTOR: SUPERCHARGE YOUR ORGANIZATION WITH INNOVATIVE THINKING. In today's fast-paced world, true success doesn't come from following the same path as everyone else, it comes from embracing what makes you unique and daring to think differently. In "The 16 Stride Factor," Olympian Sarah Wells shares the game-changing strategy that helped her defy the odds in athletics. She'll show how individuals and organizations alike can apply this approach to supercharge their own goals and unlock new levels of success. While most 400m hurdlers at the Olympics take 15 strides between hurdles, Sarah broke the mold by crafting a strategy that played to her strengths, taking 16 strides instead. This unconventional approach, tailored to her unique abilities, was key to her Olympic success. In this dynamic presentation, Sarah will challenge you to embrace unconventional approaches, leverage your team's distinctive abilities, and cultivate a culture that celebrates experimentation and exploration without fear of failure or a need for guaranteed outcomes. Get ready to break away from tradition, harness your organization's unique strengths, and discover how to achieve success in a way that only you can. Key take-aways: Conformity Crushes Creativity: When we embrace unconventional thinking and break away from traditional approaches, we open up new paths to success that others may overlook. Lead with Authenticity: We inspire our teams most powerfully when we lead in a way that's true to our unique strengths, rather than trying to mimic how others inspire. Inspire Boldness Through Action: By taking risks and not being afraid to try, we encourage those around us to step outside their comfort zones and make bold moves too. Failure Fuels Growth: Whether or not our experiments go to plan, each effort provides valuable lessons that drive future innovation and evolution.
