Retired Air Force One Pilot Who Piloted During 9/11

Flying Air Force One Todd Beer recounts stories from his experiences piloting Air Force One, how an ordinary guy found himself in extraordinary circumstances, and how the commitment to excellence he learned in the Air Force helped him fly successfully during 9/11. Beer's insider recollections are full of interesting, never-heard-before insights into the lives of Presidents Clinton and George W. Bush. He shares stories that you would have previously had to have been on the plane to hear. His firsthand experience with both presidents also sheds light on the differences between the two men, their administrations, and the geopolitical environment of the country at two different times in history.
