

Christy Goldsmith Romero

Former CFTC Commissioner, Expert in Financial Regulation, the Economy, & Risk Management

The U.S. Economic Outlook: Risk, Stability & What Comes Next. With decades of experience at the Treasury Department, SEC, and CFTC, Christy provides an inside view of the economic forces shaping markets and policy. She breaks down how issues like geopolitical risk, tariffs, and the global role of the U.S. dollar are impacting the financial system and business decision-making. Nominated to chair the FDIC, she brings a regulator's eye to questions of risk and management resilience. Her briefings help leaders cut through the noise to understand the real economic signals to make informed economic decisions.

The Future of Finance: Navigating Disruption and Digital Transformation. Christy Goldsmith Romero explores the evolving landscape of finance through the lens of rapid innovation, regulation, and technology. Drawing on her leadership of the CFTC's Technology Advisory Committee, she offers deep insights into how AI, blockchain, digital assets, and FinTech are reshaping the global economy. She emphasizes the need for responsible innovation that balances growth with consumer protection and market integrity. From crypto regulation to the tokenization of real-world assets, she decodes what's coming next and what it means for business and policy leaders. Audiences gain a strategic roadmap for preparing for the future of money.

Leading in Crisis: Integrity, Accountability & Bold Oversight. Christy shares powerful leadership lessons from the frontlines of financial crisis and regulatory reform. As the Special Inspector General for TARP, she conducted oversight over the bailout program and led hundreds of investigations into bank fraud, securing prison sentences for dozens of executives. Later, as CFTC Commissioner during a time of crypto volatility, she championed transparency and innovation under pressure. Her talks spotlight how ethical leadership and tough oversight can restore public trust and prevent future crises. This session is ideal for leaders navigating high-stakes environments or pursuing culture change.
