

David Lim

Leader of the 1st Singapore Everest Expedition

Lessons from Everest David will use the lessons from the 1st Singapore Mt Everest expedition as an example of how people and teams on mountains work best together, and the kind of self and team leadership needed to succeed. He shares the kinds of successful mindsets and attributes that helped the Singapore expedition's 4-year project – to put a group of tropical island climbers on top of the world- succeed. Some lessons covered include: Finding purpose in your work and goals Leading change, to succeed Ambitious goal setting- and goal getting Reaching the top as one team Creating the right set of beliefs to succeed Overcoming obstacles and adapting to change Doing More with Less Good is the enemy of great