Dr. Raphael Bostic

Former President and CEO of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta

Economic Outlook. Where is the U.S. economy headed, and what do decisions coming out of Washington mean for businesses, markets, and consumers? As former president and CEO of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, Dr. Raphael Bostic brings a rare insider's understanding of the forces shaping the economy and the decisions behind U.S. monetary policy. Having helped navigate a global pandemic, historic inflation, and extraordinary economic uncertainty, Bostic knows firsthand how policymakers weigh competing risks when the stakes are high. In this timely presentation, he examines the latest developments in inflation, interest rates, employment, trade, and government policy, connecting economic headlines to their real-world impact. With a talent for making complex issues accessible, Bostic helps organizations understand what's driving the economy, what signals deserve their attention, and how to prepare for the risks and opportunities ahead.
