John Breaux

Former U.S. Senator (D-LA) and Expert on Social Security, Healthcare, and Energy

Political Outlook Senator John Breaux offers hard-hitting analysis of the current political environment from the perspective of someone intimately familiar with the legislative process. He discusses the day's hot political topics, details potential legislation and policy decisions, and speaks to the strategic choices of the Parties. He also forecasts likely power shifts, looking toward the future and the next elections.

Energy Security 101 As an expert on energy issues, Breaux addresses the vast challenges and opportunities in American's energy policy. He discusses the global pressure that shapes the energy scene and suggests new and innovative ways in which we can develop an energy strategy that Americans can drive with and live with.

The Politics of Compromise In an environment of political dysfunction, Breaux shows how we can work together as individuals, communities, and a nation to achieve our goals. He is attuned to the legislation on Capitol Hill and can speak to audiences about what today's policies and issues will mean for industries and associations across the country.

Healthcare and Us Healthcare has always been an issue close to Breaux's heart. He presents the current dialogue on healthcare, outlines the ramifications of the Affordable Care Act, keeps abreast of healthcare policies and procedures under consideration, and discusses their potential impact on American business.
