Jose Manuel Barroso

President, European Commission (2004-2014) and Prime Minister, Portugal (2002-2004)

Leadership Through Global Crisis Drawing on his decade leading the European Commission during the financial and sovereign debt crises, José Manuel Barroso shares lessons on decision-making under pressure, international coordination, and leading institutions through periods of uncertainty and disruption.

The Future of Europe in a Fragmented World An insider's perspective on the political, economic, and geopolitical forces shaping Europe today — from security and competitiveness to transatlantic relations, trade, and the future role of the European Union on the global stage.

Geopolitics, Risk & the Global Economy Exploring how geopolitical instability, economic nationalism, and shifting global alliances are reshaping markets, business strategy, and international cooperation, with practical insight for corporate leaders and investors.

Diplomacy, Consensus & Global Leadership Based on years negotiating with world leaders and managing complex multinational relationships, Barroso examines the importance of diplomacy, coalition-building, and strategic leadership in an increasingly divided world.